

Pathways to Freedom

An outstanding learning opportunity!

Pathways to Freedom:

This class will consider the struggles, challenges, and triumphs that African Americans have experienced and continue to experience in their efforts to achieve justice and the blessings of full citizenship in the United States.

Dr. Fred Johnson, B.S. Bowie State University, M.A. and Ph.D. Kent State University, is Assistant Professor of American History at Hope College and adjunct faculty at Western Theological Seminary. His doctoral dissertation, The Tracks of War: Confederate Strategic Rail Policy and the Struggle for the Baltimore & Ohio, established him as one of the few African American historians specializing in the South and the Confederacy. His other subfields of specialization are: U.S. Military History; U.S. 20th Century History; and Africa.
